Promised By the Big Boss

Postmaster James Connellan of the Rockland Post Office announces that Postmaster General Donaldson has ordered that every method be used to bring about a resumption of postal service on a daily basis of two deliveries on all days except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, a half day Saturday work schedule permitting but one delivery.

A re-arrangement of schedules and the establishment of an additional route has been made to provide two deliveries on all business and residential routes as now established, the first of such new service having been established on Thursday, June 10, 1948.

Henceforth, deliveries will be made on Main street and other business sections shortly after 8 a. m. six days each week exclusive of holidays. Business houses, in particular, are urged to provide for a mail receptacle so that such early deliveries may be made before the usual 9 a. m. opening of stores, else mail for business houses may be held over until the afternoon delivery.

In residential sections, householders, on their part, requested to provide mail slots or receptacles

The Strike Is Over*Harmony Again Reigns At O'Hara Plant—Wage
Demands Granted

Workers at the fillet plant of F. J. O'Hara & Sons, Inc., have been granted wage increases which they asked and the druggers fishing for the company have returned to sea.

The plant will resume normal operation as soon as the first load of fish is landed. Wages will approximate those paid to General Seafoods, which were the rates asked by the workers when they first walked away from their positions over a week ago.

Boat owners and masters met with P. J. O'Hara and general manager of the company, Thomas Cummings and spokesmen for the workers Friday afternoon. The company agreed to the wage requests and the boats put to sea, some of them that night, to take advantage of what has been an early season rush of redfish.

Workers first left the plant more than a week ago in a protest over wages but agreed to return to clean up the fish then in port and sufficiently large to receive magazines in such a manner as will protect such mail from tearing or from damage by storms.

in the holds of vessels of the fleet still at sea. This agreement ended just before noon Thursday as the last boat's fare was cut and the workers left the plant. Friday morning, O'Hara and Cummings arrived at the plant to open the negotiations.

Wants It Dredged*Junior Chamber Of Commerce
Sees Value Of Lermond's Cove

Army engineers at Boston are studying the possibility of dredging Lermond's Cove as the result of inquiries made by the Junior Chamber of Commerce to Representative Margaret Chase Smith. The cove has long since filled to the point where only a small channel exists and that not deep or wide enough to accommodate a craft other than the smallest of pleasure boats at low tide.

The only really sheltered waters in Rockland harbor, the cove could well be a safe anchorage for boats of the fishing fleet in heavy weather and could be dredged enough to accommodate all of the vessels.

In addition to the need for an anchorage, the flats at low tide give off a most disagreeable stench when uncovered in wet weather, from the sewage carried onto them by Meadow Brook.

Realizing the importance of the requested work, Mrs. Smith passed the information to the Army Engineers immediately and now waits their report. Should the area be included in their mappings as a navigable area, work could be authorized at once.

A letter from Mrs. Smith, released this morning by President Charles Bicknell of the Junior Chamber, states that she has received information from the War Department that Rockland harbor is included in their list of projects and that it may be possible to dredge Lermond Cove under it.

Public attention is respectfully called to the fact that the Madelyn Oliver School of the Dance Review will be held Friday, June 18, in Community Building. Tangled types allowed a wrong date to be named in Friday's issue.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT*POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT*POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT*HONORED BY HIS TOWNSPEOPLE*Frederick G. Payne Given a Rousing Reception In Waldoboro Last Night

The town of Waldoboro and neighboring communities in Lincoln County paid a splendid tribute to Frederick G. Payne last night when 400 citizens assembled in the High School auditorium to hear the gubernatorial candidate outline his views on campaign issues, and to define very definitely what he proposes to do if nominated and elected.

Among his pledges were two which met with the unqualified approval of his audience—to keep open house at the State Capitol, and to make necessary revisions in the fish laws. "I propose," said Mr. Payne "to have everything above board and to keep the public thoroughly informed at all times."

Mr. Payne was given a lasting ovation when he was introduced and at the conclusion of his half-hour speech.

Other speakers were: Mrs. Maude Clark Gay, former State Senator and State committeewoman; Mrs. Rena Crowell, past State committeewoman, and vice chairman of the town committee; Mrs. Elsie Mank, State committeewoman; A. D. Gray, and Frank A. Winslow of Rockland.

Wilnot Dow acted as master of ceremonies. Excellent music was furnished by the Rockland Band, which was the recipient of special applause, as was its leader, Mr. Law.

Mr. Payne said he believed a State of Maine Week could do a great deal "to enlighten the people concerning the State's wonderful products as a result of 'our great natural resources and the ability of our exceptionally skilled labor.'"

"We of Maine," he said, "produce the finest canned vegetables and sea food. They are superior in quality to those produced anywhere else in the country. Let us of Maine insist on buying Maine-grown and packed products. When we think of shoes, sheets, blankets, bed spreads, clothing, shirts, wood products, and a hundred and one other things, let us ask, 'Is this a Maine product?'

"When we do that we will make it profitable for our farmers to produce more crops and our factories to manufacture more merchandise. Thus earnings and opportunities will be increased."

Let us learn about Maine products, buy them and use them. A State of Maine Week would do much if observed Statewide, with every store displaying Maine goods and every clerk boosting them to customers. Our job is to work to the end that our people enjoy the greatest benefits possible and by working together we can accomplish much for the good of all."

The Urban Highway*Pulling and Hauling May Prevent Big Job From Being Done

The Rockland City Council took decisive steps last night to settle the year-long controversy over the route of the urban road which is authorized for the city under the Federal Urban Road Act.

The Council has gone on record previously as being in favor of laying out the route over Broadway to Birch to Camden against the route some distance to the West and across the fields, leaving Route 1 at about the same location as would the Broadway route—near Pleasant Gardens—and joining Camden street near Tolman's bus station.

A public hearing several months ago saw two prominent State political figures, opposing each route. Alan L. Bird, chairman of the Republican State committee and Rockland attorney, opposed the Broadway route; Cleveland Sleeper, member of the Legislature opposed the route across the fields as it would cut across his land.

The State Highway Commission has done nothing on the much needed road program which would save the taxpayers of Rockland about a quarter million dollars. Rockland would not be required to pay any part of the building costs.

LEGION VOTES TO REBUILD*Will Erect Two Story Cement and Brick Block On Site Of Present Home

Winslow-Holbrook-Merritt Post, American Legion, has voted to rebuild on the site of the old building on Limerock street, which was destroyed by fire. Approximately 60 members were present at the meeting held at the Elks Home, last Thursday night with a majority of those present favoring building against the purchase of other property in the city.

The new building is to be two stories in height and will have space for a single store on the ground store of about 52x38 feet.

as it is fully covered with Federal funds.

The Council has notified the Commission that it favored Broadway. The Junior Chamber of Commerce has obtained letters of approval of the Broadway route from several large local organizations and still no action has been taken. By this time, it must be obvious to the Commission that there is a marked desire in the city to have the road built over Broadway; and at once.

Councilman Wm. J. Sullivan spoke heatedly on the matter and sponsored a resolution which would again notify the commission of their desires and at the same time try to arrange a meeting between Council and the commission at a very early date to make a final decision on the matter.

The proposed Broadway route was petitioned against by 18 Broadway residents at the start of the program and it is understood that a second petition has been circulated by persons living on Broadway; also against the road.

Grange Corner

Knox Pomona Subordinate lecturers will meet at noon time for a conference, next Saturday, at Pomona Field Day, which will be held at Ocean View Grange at Martinsville.

Gilford Butler of South Thomaston was principal speaker at the Flag Day exercises of the Rockland Lodge of Elks Sunday night. Music for the annual observance was provided by Harvey's orchestra with Mrs. Lydia Storer as soloist. The history of the flag was recited by past exalted ruler Maynard Marston. Prayer was offered by Chaplain Rufus Hall while district deputy Robert Brewer was in charge of the altar service. Brewer and the officers of the lodge served as a committee in charge of arrangements.

Rockland Lodge will work the third degree tonight. Supper at 6.30.

The second floor, which will house the Legion activities, will have the same dimensions. Committees are to be appointed to receive plans and bids for building contracts while still another committee, yet to be appointed, will handle financing.

Proposed construction will be of cement block with brick facing. Cost of building has been mentioned as near $40,000. The Post realized about $10,000 from insurance payments on the old building loss and slightly over $2,000 on the furnishings.

Is Well Qualified*Governor Hildreth Is Of Senatorial Calibre, Says
Roscoe Hupper

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
May I say a word about Governor Hildreth?

My interest in Maine involving its education, its shipping affairs, its business and commerce generally, ranks all my other interests, although my temporary residence in New York bars my voting in the June 21 primaries, that does not bar me from an opinion.

The exacting duties of the United States Senators demand men of high calibre, vigor and vision. Governor Hildreth meets this test. He has grown constantly in stature and outlook. His fibre is attested by differences of opinion about his measures—he dares to take a stand, often required of a senator. His being chosen head of the National Conference of State Governors is a major fact which besides being a tremendous honor to our State of Maine, simply cannot be discounted or neglected in measuring the calibre of the man.

It does not demean any other candidate thus to speak of the Governor. If the question were one of personality only one might be hard put to it for choice. The true question is far different. What choice is best in the interest of the State of Maine and of our nation, not the interest of any single person. We are in the midst of stirring and perilous times, with even greater such doubtless soon to come.

Having some acquaintance with National affairs and activities. It does seem to me that Governor Hildreth is by all odds far the best qualified to be chosen for this most important post.

Very sincerely yours,

TWICE-A-WEEK

Greeted By Alumni

Class Of '48, Rockland High School, Guest At The Annual Meeting

An all-time record attendance welcomed the Class of '48 Rockland High School into the Alumni Association Friday night. The class on its part was present in an all-time high, both in numbers and percentage at an alumni meeting. This excellent turnout was characteristic of '48, which has been known as a "good class" for its school career.

President Edward R. Ladd handled the meeting with aplomb, aided by the smoothness of well-organized committees. Mrs. John Passon read the secretary's report in the absence of Helvi Rivers Hamalainen and Treasurer Lucille Connors' report showed that department in the best condition of the association's history. President Herman M. Hart of the Anna E. Coughlin Scholarship Fund announced the first loan made and the fund growing through contributions of Alumni and friends of Miss Coughlin.

In the receiving line were Principal and Mrs. Robert Clunie, Jr.; Mrs. Stella Fuller Linekin '08, Mrs. Maud Melvin Stevens and Erwin Spear '18; Elena Fredy Detre and James Flanagan '28 and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hewitt (Marion Ludwick) '38.

The ever interesting class roll was followed by the election of the 48-49 officers: President Paul Merriam '30; vice president, Mary Bird Hudson '28; secretary, Jean Young '48; treasurer, Laura Pomeroy '40; executive committee: Dorothy Blithen Dowling '18; Pauline McLean Bessie '21, Dr. Bradford Burgess '27, Mrs. Bowley Harden '39 and Richard Karl '39.

Theodore Sylvester and Donald Kelsey presented an exceptionally good program. Carl Gray, widely-known youthful radio singer, rendered two songs followed by Greta Nelson, Class of '48, a truly gifted comedienne, and Janet Escorsio, Class of '50 who presented two vocal numbers which were warmly received. The showing of old grad pictures lived up to its most enthusiastic expectations and kept the audience in an uproar for a half hour.

The refreshments were in charge of Nathalie Robbins Snow, general chairman, assisted in serving by Doris Coltart and Ruth Pike Cross. Charles H. McIntosh made the punch. Waitresses were: Reta Hammond, Mary Cates, Joan Clough, Beulah Powell, Patricia Munro, Betty Long and Jackie Snow.

An innovation which met enthusiastic appreciation was the committee's departure from routine by utilizing several dozen card tables, set around the gym, cabaret style, allowing a friendly sociability never before possible. To Nancy Snow

[EDITORIAL]

SUPPORTING FRED PAYNE

Ever since the Primary election system was introduced it has been the policy of this newspaper to maintain strict neutrality in the party contests. We are violating that custom this year, partly because several other Maine papers have declared for the candidate of their choice, but principally because this section of the State is offering a candidate for governor for the first time since the election of the late William T. Cobb in the early part of the 20th century.

Because this locality stands to benefit by the election of Frederick G. Payne, and because he has elements of fitness not shared by his opponents, we are expressing the hope that Mr. Payne will be the overwhelming choice of the voters in Knox and Lincoln Counties. Although he served three terms as mayor of Augusta, Mr. Payne is now a prominent Waldoboro business man, and his location 16 miles from Rockland has broadened his acquaintance here and given him a much closer acquaintance with this city's needs and desires. His friendship for Rockland, however, dates back a number of years, and was substantially evidenced when he was such an important factor in the establishment of the industrial factory now occupied by Van Baalen-Heilbrun. We are loath to believe that any Rockland Republican understanding this situation and Mr. Payne's acknowledged ability should fail to vote for him next Monday.

FIFTY-EIGHT MILLION

The founder of the Gallup Poll estimates that 58,000,000 voters will cast their ballots for President on the first Tuesday of next November. This is far in excess of the total vote cast in 1944, and reflects the tremendous interest which is being manifested in the pre-convention contests. Franklin D. Roosevelt was re-elected that year, as might have been expected, but his opponent, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, received the largest vote ever cast for a Republican nominee. All signs point to a reversal of the 1944 result the coming November.

LAKEWOOD THE BEAUTIFUL

Lakewood Theatre has begun another season—successfully, it would appear, judging from the attendance and comments which have marked the opening week. It's quite a smart little trip from Rockland but our theatregoers who essay it several times a season always feel amply repaid. The location is one of the most beautiful in the State, the theatre is admirably managed, and the performances are the kind that Broadway will see when the Winter season opens.

THE PALESTINE "TRUCE"

The purpose of the truce in Palestine is to stop the fighting between Israel and the Arabs, so that negotiations may be resumed for a permanent settlement in the Holy Land. There have been endless discussions of this problem, with no result but war. Will the truce period be more fruitful? Only the most thoughtful optimist could reply to this question with an unqualified affirmative, but at least there seems reason for guarded hope.

For one thing, the state of Israel exists; it has been recognized by several countries; it has an army and a provisional government. Israel cannot be negotiated out of Palestine, and, to that extent, the talks must begin on a different basis than in the past. For another point of difference, both sides have tested their military strength, and neither seems disposed to fight on if honor and vital interests can be preserved peacefully. Finally, there have been statements from both camps which, although apparently poles apart, suggest the bases for some agreement.

For example, Faris el Khouri of Syria, president of the Security Council, speaks of a single political state of Palestine, organized on federal lines. This, presumably, would mean the absorption of Israel into a predominantly Arab nation. President Chaim Weizmann rejects federation and insists on the sovereignty of Israel. But he acknowledges the need for economic co-operation in Palestine, which was part of the original partition plan, and asserts that Israel is willing to join an economic union with the rest of the Holy Land.

Thus both Jews and Arabs admit the wisdom of some form of partnership in Palestine and suggest that an accommodation should not be beyond the capabilities of reasonable men. There are tasks which both can pursue in common, development of land and water-power resources to which each can contribute. The Arabs cannot turn back the clock; the Jews are willing to extend a hand to their foes. The process of working out a detailed solution is, of course, far from easy. Much bitterness has been aroused which will not be easily allayed, and the announced positions of the two parties are still widely separated. But the situation has changed since the war began, and recognition of that fact may well bring it to an end.—Herald Tribune.

This Week's Games

Tonight: Camden at Rockland; St. George at Thomaston; Spruce Head at Waldoboro; Warren at Rockport.

Thursday night: Rockport at Rockland; Warren at Camden; Waldoboro at Thomaston; Spruce Head at St. George.

By being able to play all its scheduled games in league competition and winning all three of them the Thomaston team under Manager Watts gets away to the best start in years for the boys from Thomaston. With five pitchers to pick from in Raymoe Upton, Johnny Dana, Tweedie, Stewart, and Harold Sawyer this should be the Club to beat to win this year's league race. Rumor also has the two infield stars of many previous seasons, Cliff Pelt and Les Simpson to be ready shortly to report to an already strong club.

The Rockland Pirates have had two postponed games this past week and the Spruce Head game which was to have been played in Thomaston Sunday was also rained out. This club's pitching staff was strengthened Sunday by Dick French and Andy Weymouth reporting for mound duty. Dick did a fine job last season in the Pirates' bid for the pennant winning the last four games pitched against Warren to enable the Rockland team to win the league title. Weymouth the only south-paw on the mound staff has been hurling for the High School and had a very successful season.

Rockport has been re-organized and Manager Foote has the makings of a scrappy club, the team coming from behind five runs to beat the Spruce Head team in their first game. With Richards as their ace hurler with a year of college competition behind him and with the young players from Union this team is due for their share of wins although they could stand another pitcher or two.

Spruce Head although losing to Rockport, won over Camden on the latter's own diamond for a standing of 500 pct. Bucky Murgita who won his share of games for the High School this season is this team's star hurler and from reports if one or two of the other prospective hurlers show up as good this won't be the cellar team by a long shot.

Waldoboro like the Pirates has only played one game but showed a well-balanced club and with Bowman leading their pitching staff will push Rockland and Thomaston all Summer.

Warren, through the loss of at least six key men in their good team of last season has also played only one game in the league and although losing to Thomaston John Durrell and company can be counted on to be in the pennant race all the way although Mr. Norwood could make a whale of a difference to this team.

Camden this year with the five High School stars in their line-up hasn't got started off right but with Lake the classy south-paw back to pitch this year and with Doug Heald, Keith Richards and Harold Bowman back for another season of league competition the team from Camden should get in high gear before long and could get started Tuesday night in Rockland against the Pirates.

St. George is the only team that has not been able to play a single game in the league yet, due to wet grounds and graduation. Last season this club had to start with most of the roster made up of new men and with most of these back for their second season this should be a much better one for the Kenney coached men.

Waldoboro 10, Rockport 0

Last night's game in Rockport, went only seven innings, but the home team failed to score in any of them. Waldoboro, on the contrary, romped at will, scoring 16 hits.

To Launch Thursday

Sardine Carrier Mary Anne To Go Overboard At Thomaston

Newbert & Wallace Shipyard of Thomaston will launch the sardine carrier Mary Anne, at 9 o'clock Thursday morning for Holmes Packing Co. of Rockland and Lubec.

The 83-foot craft is a distinct departure from sardine carriers ever built before in that she is completely refrigerated. Compressor units have been installed in the engine room and a brine tank located between the holds. Brine, held at low temperatures, will be pumped into the fish holds, both cooling and salting the herring in one operation. The brine will be replaced after each trip from a supply kept ready at the Rockland plant at all times. The tank has a capacity of 1500 gallons with 700 feet of cooling coils within it.

The refrigeration is supplied by 15 horsepower automatic units made by Baker Ice Machine Company of South Windham and furnished by the Jarvis Engineering Company of Boston.

Supervisor in the construction of the craft and installation of the refrigeration for the owners has been Capt. George H. Hicks of Eastport who will go as her master. Power for the refrigeration units is supplied by a 40 KW General Motors diesel generator.

The carrier measures 83 foot overall and has a beam of 18 foot 6 inches and a draft of 9 foot. She is oak framed and planked with hard pine and pine decking. The deck is covered with a mixture of oil and drier, compounded by Capt. Hicks, which is designed to prevent chipping as is the case with a painted deck at times.

The pilot house is made of waterproof plywood and measures 14x7 feet and has the captain's stateroom aft and three windows for vision in the wheelhouse proper.

Power is supplied by a pair of General Motors diesels of 165 horsepower each, driving to a single screw with 4 to 1 reduction gear.

She is equipped with Hudson-American ship to shore telephone, Bendix depth recorder, Karr direction finder and hydraulic wheelhouse engine controls by Adel. The 250 pound, Navy type anchor was supplied by the Harris Company of Portland. She has an Ideal deck anchor winch and an Ireland deck hoist operated by a 7 1-2 horsepower electric motor. A Perke searchlight and Kahlenberg air horn complete her deck equipment. The galley is outfitted with a Shipmate oil burning range and electric refrigeration.

Quarters have been provided for a crew of two forward with provisions to accommodate two extra persons if need be.

The carrier is named for the daughters of M. B. Pike, owner of the craft.

When launched, she will be fully equipped for sea and may leave the builders' yards the following day for service along the coast.

Maj. Sterne Coming

Will Open Bible Conference At First Baptist Church June 22

A Bible Conference is to open in the First Baptist Church on Tuesday night, June 22, with Dr. J. Charles Sterne, F.R.G.S., and formerly a senior chaplain in the British South African Army with the rank of Major, as the leader.

Dr. Sterne was born in England but lived all his life, from the age of seven, in South Africa with the exception of several years spent in study in America. He has traveled widely, having visited five of the six continents. For some years he has been pastor in South Africa and served in an executive position in connection with his denomination. He served as Commissioner for Evangelism in the Baptist Union of South Africa, during which time he visited the whole of South Africa and Southern Rhodesia.

He has an understanding of men, having preached in strange places and various parts of the world, while his experiences in both world wars has given him a keen insight into the problems that face human life today. During the First World War, Dr. Sterne served in the South African Medical Corps, and in this last war, as a chaplain, first with an artillery regiment and later as Senior Chaplain in the Eastern Command.

He is a quiet but forceful speaker, and his preaching never fails to capture his hearers, revealing, as it does, an understanding of men, coupled with the dynamic spiritual appeal. His message is full of interest as he draws upon his wide experiences to illustrate spiritual truths.

The Bible Conference will continue through June 27, and the sessions will open at 7:30. The public is cordially invited to attend the sessions of this Conference.

Jennie A. Thurston

Mrs. Jennie A. Thurston died May 31 at her home in South Union. Services were held June 3, when many friends gathered to pay tribute to her memory.

Rev. J. C. MacDonald of the Baptist Church of Rockland, assisted by Rev. C. S. Mitchell of the Methodist Church here, conducted the service at the home, which was followed by a committal service at Union cemetery.

Many beautiful flowers bore a silent but eloquent message of the esteem in which she was held.

Mrs. Thurston was born Nov. 30, 1860, in Rockland, daughter of Amariah and Julia Kellogg, and her girlhood was spent in that city.

On June 2, 1882, she married Joseph D. Thurston, who with his brother established the firm of Thurston Brothers, casket manufacturers, in South Union. Mr. Thurston died July 23, 1927. Four daughters were born of this marriage, all of whom survive, Mrs. George Mansfield of South Haven, Mich.; Miss Florence Thurston of South Union; Mrs. Alvah Robbins of Reading, Mass., and Mrs. Merrill Henderson of Quebec, Vt.

Mrs. Thurston loved her home and was a devoted wife and mother, but her interests went beyond the home and in the community in which she lived so long she made an ever-increasing circle of friends. Her thoughtfulness of others, her many kind deeds and the friendly hospitality she extended in her home, drew many to her, and this number included both young and old.

Mrs. Thurston was a loyal member of the Methodist Church to which she gave most generously of time, strength and resources. As long as she was able she took an active part in all church work and for many years was a teacher in the Sunday school. In the church and the community she will be greatly missed, for although kept indoors as her years advanced she continued to keep in touch with all her friends with frequent messages.

How Lobster Rearing Program Has Been Speeded Up At Boothbay

The annual lobster rearing program at Boothbay Harbor opened Friday and modernization of facilities should result in at least 100 percent increased production, according to rearing station Supt. Merlin Gray.

Seven heated lines of rearing tanks are in operation as against the usual three and it was stated that more can be set up, if necessary.

Gray said the improvements were possible through the co-operation of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. As a result the department has installed an oil heating system for the rearing tanks that has completely revolutionized the method of producing fourth-stage young lobsters and initial results are exceeding expectations.

He said that the new system had apparently solved the problem of gas bubbles forming in the water and causing great losses of the baby crustaceans during the process of growth to a size adequate for release in the ocean.

According to Gray the department had secured and installed a $20,000 War Surplus plant at a total cost of about $1500 to the State. All work on remodeling was done by the regular crew maintained at the station. New equipment includes a boiler, oil burner, heat exchanger and numerous control devices.

The program is operated in co-operation with the Fish and Wildlife Service. Lobster eggs are hatched in the Federal station and sent to the State plant for rearing. After they reach the fourth or sinking stage the young are released in suitable locations all along the coast. Purpose of the project is to help maintain the State's heavily fished lobster resources.

Two years ago the station was put on a semi-experimental basis in an effort to determine the feasibility of lobster rearing and to find ways and means of producing more young at a much smaller individual cost.

Floyd Robertson To Receive Degree Of Doctor Of Medicine At Yale

Seventeen students from Maine are among the over 1800 candidates for degrees at Yale University's 247th Commencement, which begins June 19 and runs through Tuesday, June 22.

The degree candidates are drawn from every State in the Union, from Alaska and Hawaii, and from 18 foreign countries. Connecticut, with 452 candidates, leads the list, followed by New York with 386, and Massachusetts with 122.

Of the foreign countries China, with 13, has the largest number of candidates, followed by Canada with 10 and Turkey with three. Hawaii is represented by seven students, Alaska by one.

Among the graduates from Maine is Floyd G. Robertson, Jr., of 34 High Street, Vinalhaven, who will receive a degree as Doctor of Medicine.

Federal experts are working with the production crew on the development of improved methods.

Commissioner Richard E. Reed stated that he was much pleased with the results of the new system to date. He said that the heating plant eliminated the hiring of two firemen and gave a flow of controlled heated water to more tanks.

"This should increase production materially and permit us to produce more and better lobsters at greatly decreased costs," he said.

One of the most noted of the former Lisle Fellowship is the Japanese pastor Rev. Kiyoshi Tanimoto, so favorably written up by John Hersey in "Hiroshima, The Story of Six Human Beings Who Survived."

Ames A Candidate

Vinalhaven Fisherman Will Run For Representative In Primaries

Leroy E. Ames of Vinalhaven has announced that he is a candidate for Republican Representative. Mr. Ames was born at Vinalhaven, graduated from Vinalhaven High School in 1920, attended University of Maine two years, then entered the fishing business. For 11 years he was yacht captain for Mrs. Elliott R. Saltonstall of Boston, giving up his work on her boat to become captain of his own dragger in 1940.

Mr. Ames recently sold his dragger "Lida & Dick" and has had a power boat built and is again engaged in the lobster industry. He feels that he fully understands the many problems of the men who are either fishing or jobs/earning. If elected Representative one of his interests would be to work for their benefit.

Mrs. De Laite's Grade Six was the winner of the reading contest. Mrs. Barbour's Grade Six was a close second.

Grade Five contest winners came from Mrs. Parr's room.

Since the first contest ended in April, Mrs. Hall's group has led Mrs. Parr's Fifth Grade.

Grade Six is finding out facts about humming birds. An interesting experiment is being carried out by the making of feeding tubes to be placed in the gardens. It is hoped to attract more humming birds to our homes.

Grades Four and Five found out how Indian teepees were made. After listing the steps for making a teepee each pupil made a miniature model. Some of the results were very good.

Donald Lessard read a story to Mrs. Perry's class from our home-made animal story book.

Miss Rolfe presented us with a new game called Phonetic Lotto. Everyone has found this new game profitable as well as fun.

The Sixth Grade pupils requested that they learn in choral reading the poem, "Trees," by Joyce Kilmer. It has been done in a very fine manner.

Result Of Contest Conducted By Junior Chamber Of Commerce

"Rockland, What's Wrong Here" (By Phil Magitz)

Every year a good percentage of the youth of Rockland leave the city, and even the State, not to return for a long time. This is an unnecessary drain on the quota of intelligence. There is one way of counteracting this situation. Make it worth while for young people to stay here.

Anybody can get a job for a few months a year at a fish plant. Who wants to? There are openings at the lime quarries—kiln, ice houses, or lumber mills, openings perhaps, but no chance to get anywhere, nothing to work for but the next month's rent. There's no getting around it, Rockland sadly lacks industry.

There is not enough room in and about Rockland to be a successful farmer in a mercenary sense of the word. Agriculture will always in Rockland, hold to small truck-farming, chicken farming and the perpetual dairying. It's a good life if you like it.

Business holds a few openings for bright young people who don't want to make their million in the first year. Not all is quality and thrift in Rockland at the present. The only requisite is a sincere desire to build a lasting business based on integrity. Of course, the necessary capital is by no means a small matter.

After all is said and done about work, the ancient proverb, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" pops into mind. What is there to do in Rockland? Nothing. With the co-operation of the citizens, Rockland could build as fine a series of parks, playgrounds and recreational centers as any city of the same size. There is practically nothing for the children to do but roam the streets.

There is not a decent swimming hole for miles around. In general, nothing to do prevails all year. A step in the right direction was accomplished by the Community Building Association, but it still has a long way to go.

There is one theatre in the city that has a movie worth seeing every now and then. Stage shows of any pretence of being good are never presented. The High School comes as close to drama, even though the students can't sing as well as Jimmy and Dick.

There is little room for spectators at football, basketball, and baseball games. The addition of a few more bleachers, giving the public a chance to sit down, would be a cause to cheer to those who dislike being jostled and pushed while trying to keep their eyes on the game. Rockland needs a Y.M.C.A. A place where people may meet in a friendly atmosphere, where young men may get a bunk for a night or two at a reasonable rate, and where one may relax alone with others.

Now, to build up a city there must be employment. Rockland needs more big industry. The taxes collected from them and the employment would be a tremendous asset to any community. Boys out of High School would be eager to take a decent job that held room for advancement. Big industry and its demand for technical knowhow would be enough reason for those who went away to college to come back to get positions in their own home town. Everyone knows that there is no place like home. It's about time the people of Rockland woke up to their duty to themselves. There is absolutely no place on this earth quite like home.

"Rockland"

(By Wesley Hayes)

The principal drawback for the average working man who wishes to make his home in Rockland is the lack of industry and employment. The fact that 1600 are unemployed in this city at this time should be sufficient proof to substantiate this statement. There are certain seasonal positions to be had, but the earning power for the short Summer season is still insufficient for the support of a family for an entire year.

It would appear that any attempt to promote industry, and therefore employment in the city has been blocked by the few who control the money interests of the city. These few are unconcerned about how the working man makes his living. There seems to be no way to make money here. In order to make money, a man must be where it is in circulation, and here the few who have it either keep it or spend it elsewhere.

As there is not enough employment for the population, the only alternative is for a man to operate his own business, but he has no opportunity to accumulate the original investment, as the wage scale is, and has been for years, too low to allow a family more than a bare existence.

The shopping center is inadequate for Rockland and the surrounding towns which patronize the Rockland stores. There are too many commodities which are unobtainable in Rockland for which the consumer must shop elsewhere at a decided inconvenience. A greater variety of merchandise would be a decided advantage to the residents. More stores would fulfill a threefold need; financial gain for the proprietors; employment for the workers; and greater shopping convenience for the public. It is altogether too evident to anyone who passes along the main street that we are not in need of more jewelry or furniture stores, or hot-dog stands. However, Rockland could support more restaurants, where a fellow could get a square meal at a reasonable cost.

The street could stand a lot of improvement and the sidewalk situation is deplorable. Most of them are poor, and in many cases, conspicuous by their absence. The city is decidedly backward; the lack of progress is outstanding. To be sure, the city was built a good many years ago, and the buildings are old; but it is amazing to note the number of houses without modern improvements, which fact is again the result of the lack of money.

It doesn't seem possible that in this century, in a city in the United States of America, so many homes could be without even adequate bathrooms, to say nothing of more modern facilities. The central heating systems that people have taken for granted in the larger cities for so long seem to be just making their debut in Rockland. The surprising element is that the general public has accepted these disadvantages in a spirit of resignation, and therefore, nothing is done about them.

Rockland, situated as it is, on a beautiful natural harbor, could be as lovely a city as there is on the eastern seaboard. But it doesn't present itself, to a person entering the city for the first time, as a very desirable place in which to settle down and make a home.

"To Work, To Live and To Play" (By Gloria Studley)

The youth of Rockland, today, think that their city has nothing to offer them as a place in which to work, to live and to play. Let's take a look around our city and see if they are right or wrong. First, let's look at the opportunity for a place in which to work. As we look up and down Main street, there seems to be every kind of store that any city, the size of ours, would have; and there are quite a few stores selling the same line of merchandise. So you see, it would be difficult for a young man or woman to go into business for himself, selling merchandise that is already being sold in many of the other stores.

Let's leave Main street for a moment and look for a manufacturing plant that operates on a year-round basis. All we find is one. A young man could start a manufacturing plant of his own on a small basis at first, and gradually expand, or, he could bring a branch of a large manufacturing plant here. Manufacturing plants, operating on a year-round basis, would bring people into Rockland, who in turn would patronize the business stores.

A place in which to live! As suggested in the first paragraph, bringing more manufacturing plants into the city would bring more people into the city. This would be fine, but the first question that would enter their minds would be, "Where will we find a place to live?" At the present time, there doesn't seem to be any place in which to live. But what about these young men graduating from high school who are going into the carpentry business? Rockland could certainly use a fine set of apartment buildings, such as can be found in Bangor and Portland. Even without new families coming into Rockland, many of those already living here would like to move into better accommodations.

Many motorists complain about the people who walk in the streets. They don't see why they don't walk on the sidewalks. But as they have cars they probably don't walk on the sidewalks very often, for if they did they wouldn't blame the people for walking in the streets. When you walk on some of the sidewalks you have to be very careful or you are apt to trip over raised bricks or fall into a hole where the tar has sunk. You never know when you will have to climb over a tree root! These sidewalks should be dug up and new ones put in.

The streets of our city are just as bad, and should be dug up and renewed the same as our sidewalks; and the new ones laid should go completely to the sidewalks, to do away with the dirty looking gutters that we now have.

Rockland could be made a more attractive city if it had a park. It wouldn't have to be too large a park, but should contain some benches where people can sit and read their papers or just sit and

Woman Who Loves 'Em Coming Here With King Bros. Circus

Many marvel at the strength, skill and endurance that a circus performer is capable of. There are on both sides of the Atlantic more than 2000 women who earn their living with the circus, and of these nearly one-half are to be found in America.

Of the young women with the King Brothers Circus, Francine De rest while their children play in the swings and skeers that should be provided. This would also give a place to put our honor roll for our war dead. A good place for this would be on Limerock street next to the Community Building.

In spite of the water that fronts Rockland there is not a decent place for people to go swimming. This is partly due to the short sewers that go out into the harbor. If these were extended, Rockland could clean up one of its beaches, and make a fine public beach for swimming.

With a few improvements, Rockland would be a much better city in which to work to live, and to play.

Miss Marion Dorman Tells Of Religious Education In Virginia

Mrs. Elizabeth Moody and daughter, Mrs. Mildred Teele, were hostesses to the Woman's Educational Club at their Lucia Beach cottage, Friday. It was a very delightful party with some sunshine to enhance the gorgeous coastal scenery. Mrs. Lina Carroll assisted them in serving.

The guest speaker was Miss Marion Dorman who told of her work in religious education in Virginia. This work is financed by the council of churches in each county and a period of 40 minutes is given in the public schools. This work is not compulsory and is given with the parents' full consent.

She stated she had found them very co-operative and in many cases, enthusiastic in the prescribed course of training. The curriculum is designed to be non-sectarian and is compiled by the same council that sponsors the course.

The work was begun in Virginia in 1923 and has been greatly enlarged during the years. Forty-six States in the United States have such programs in operation. Miss Dorman brought copies of newspapers her class had made, and read original poems that had been written by youngsters, that were amazing. The prayers, likewise, were inspirational.

One prominent judge in New York had found that 90 percent of all criminals coming before his jurisdiction had never received any religious training. She said, she felt there was a definite need for a basic Christian training for youth.

When questioned as to the negro children, she felt they should be included but prejudices in the South are still very strong and one had to tread softly regarding such matters, but she hoped in the future to reach them as well.

Wants Farm Workers

State Employment Service Has Begun Systematic Campaign

Errol W. Burns, an interviewer in the Rockland office of the State employment service, has been appointed farm labor representative for the area served by that office, according to announcement today by John D. Coughlin, office manager. Coughlin said Burns will have charge of recruiting farm workers for planting, tilling and harvesting crops, and in addition will direct recruiting emergency workers for manning food processing plants in this area.

Already, according to the manager, Burns is actively recruiting 350 boys and girls in high and grammar schools, through the co-operation of educational authorities. In general, there are two kinds of help needed—boys between 16 and 20 years old to enlist in the Junior Farm Volunteers, to devote a major part of the summer vacation living and working on farms near their homes, and day-haul workers, both boys and girls, of grammar and high school age, who will live at home and help harvest crops in their immediate neighborhood, being transported daily to and from work in safe comfortable buses, supervised by older persons who have specialized in this kind of work. Substantial wages are paid both kinds of workers.

Burns is engaged in recruiting boys and girls for both groups. A survey of labor needs has indicated that approximately 300 extra workers, not usually in the labor market, will be needed in the Rockland crop-producing area.

School authorities, in general, are working closely with the employment service, recognizing that this year's acreage will be nearly a record high and that food is just as vital today as it was in war years. Experts have agreed that food may well play a determining part in the establishment of a just and lasting peace.

High School principals, in many instances, have appointed a teacher to have charge of registrations in each school. Registration cards have been provided each school. These cards are to be taken home and signed by parents, both for the Junior Farm Volunteers, and for day-haul workers. These cards are to be returned to the school, and there the farm labor director will get them.

A little later, Coughlin said, adult workers, not usually in the labor market, will be needed to process foods before they spoil, foods which the younger workers have grown and harvested. For this processing work, men and women who can work part time, spare time or full time, will be needed to insure all parties against loss.

Coughlin said the farm labor assignment is a recent one for the employment service, as this work in recent years has been done under the direction of the Extension Service of the department of agriculture. Under a Congressional law enacted last year, responsibility for recruiting all kinds of farm labor is placed with the State Employment Service, with offices in 16 towns and cities of Maine.

Several farm labor specialists, formerly with the extension service, have been employed by the employment office, to supervise the Statewide program. John G. Small of Augusta, former manager of the Bath office, has charge of the Statewide work. Two special assistants, Milton Bradford and Samuel Hitchings, both veteran farm specialists, will help Small in supervising the farm labor recruitment.

The Rockland manager stressed the close supervision under which both the Junior Farm Volunteers and the day-haul workers will be placed, in order to make certain that working conditions are as nearly ideal as possible. Farms where the boys will live are selected carefully, and the boys are selected carefully, too. Day-haul workers, who ride in buses, are closely supervised both enroute and on the job. In addition to a careful, safe bus operator, an adult supervisor, in many cases a college student, also goes along to insure safety.

The Rotary Club

Members Much Interested In Dodge's Lecture, "South Of The Border"

In the absence of President Ken Crane, Jerry Burrows presided at the meeting Friday. Doc Jameson, conducting, and Staff Congdon playing, gave the lift to the singing.

The following citation given to the Rockland club for the best club service for the year in the 1934 District was read by Bob Hudson.

"To a club that has all four types of members, that operates on the 'Aims and Objects' plan, that keeps an up to date roster of filled and unfilled classifications. Issues a weekly bulletin that contains Rotary news, as well as local news. Has a regular monthly directors' meeting and regular evening club assemblies. Has worked up a fine method for informing new members. Has an active fellowship committee for visitors and new members. It has an unusual and impressive ceremony at the opening of each meeting. It recognizes members each year with 100 percent attendance. Ninety percent of its members are serving actively on club committees. It has been represented at the International Convention. It has participated 100 percent in Rotary Foundation and has an attendance average of over 90 percent for each of the nine months of the Rotary year. Its programs have been diversified and have applied to all avenues of Rotary service. The club has developed a good understanding of its purpose and program in the community. To the Rockland club, I award you the certificate for club service."

It was voted to go ahead with arrangements for ladies' night at Samost Hotel the night of July 2. Progress was reported on the sale of tickets for the Bill Cunningham lecture to be given in the Community Building Wednesday, June 16, at 8 p. m. Ned Cutting was high line with a sale of 27 tickets. Ned gave a pep talk that should stimulate ticket sales.

John Lowe, in charge of the program, introduced Leon Dodge, the speaker as an acquaintance of many years standing. Twice president of the Damariscotta Rotary Club and president of the First National Bank of Damariscotta.

New School Plans

Will Be Ready For Contractors' Study Within Two Weeks

Plans for the new school building at the South End are in the last stages of revision and may well be ready for study for contractors who wish to submit bids within two weeks. School District Trustees are now studying every last detail in order to insure the final plans being exactly as required and that there will be no necessity of changes after construction is started. Once the architect has made the required changes in plans and specifications, they will be open to any contractor who wishes to bid.

The trustees met Wednesday night with the architect and received the final plans for their approval. Changes may come from the study of those plans by the members of the board of trustees and which will be made by the architect before the bids are issued. A study is being made of different methods of financing to obtain the best possible terms for the bond issue. There will be 31 school districts in the State seeking financing this year, including Rockland.

"I have termed this talk 'South of the Border.' We made our trip by airplane traveling some 10,000 miles in all. Pan-America Airways has lines all over South America, opening up much country heretofore inaccessible and shortening distances so that places two days away could be reached in one hour and 10 minutes. South America is full of opportunities for young people.

"Many of our young Americans are taking advantage of these opportunities and migrating there. The people of South America do not like to be called South Americans. They prefer the more distinctive titles, Peruvians, Brazilians, etc. President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull did much to improve good will between the United States and the people south of the border. Yet the Italians and Germans seem to be regarded as a more congenial people.

"They regard our attitude as one of high pressure. We have probably loaned them too much money, and they now think of us as the rat sucker of the North. We need less dollar diplomacy and more understanding of the aims and desires of these people."

In a series of pictures Leon showed Cali, Columbia, Quito, old capitol of Ecuador, and Lima, Peru. People moving about in daily occupations. The brilliance of the decorations prepared for people seeking office. They take politics seriously south of the border. Arid, barren lands re-leaved by the lush green fertility of the river valleys, bold coast lines recreation beaches and the architecture of buildings, some reaching back 400 years, and adorned with the original hand carvings. Geraniums of unusual beauty, the bold heights of mountains and the sweep of plateaus.

Jerry Burrows spoke for the club when he said: "On behalf of the club, I thank you for this very interesting program."

Visiting Rotarians were W. Lee Dickens, Camden; Aubrey Pimman, Belfast; F. C. Small, M. D., Belfast; J. A. Hughes, Camden; Hayden R. Childs, Camden; Alex M. Conner, Hampton, Va. Visitor, William D. Talbot, Rockland.

Many Awards Made

Feature Of the Graduation Exercises In Warren Congregational Church

The largest number of awards ever made to the graduates and lower classmen of High School, was given out during graduation exercises held Wednesday at the Warren Congregational Church, for a class of 12, by Principal Fred L. Perkins, Jr. Included in the list were many additions and some changes. The name of the donor of the cash prizes for the highest ranking boy and girl in the graduating class, was revealed for the first time, and it had been made for about five years. The giver of this is George W. J. Carr. As for change, instead of individual medal awards in athletics, two gold cups were given, one to the girl who contributed most to softball, and one to the boy who did the most for the baseball team. The name of each is to be engraved thereon, held by the individual for a year, and next year passed back to the school for the 1949 award, thus rotating from year to year.

Miss Hazel Snowdell, valedictorian, received a year's subscription to a monthly magazine; the Becker Junior College Key, given the highest ranking student in the school; a permanent wave to the highest ranking student, given by Miss Florence Packard; the Carr cash award of $25; the Danforth Foundation book, "I Dare You." Miss Snowdell is the daughter of the late Wesley Snowdell of South Thomaston.

Arthur Jura, first honor essayist son of Mr. and Mrs. Erlend Jura, received the Carr $25 cash award as the highest ranking boy of the class, the Danforth Foundation Book, "I Dare You."

Evangeline Barbour, second honor essayist, received the D.A.R. medal, and the gold cup in athletics. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Barbour. Other awards in the graduating class were: Cup in athletics to James Halligan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Halligan, Jr., and the Principal's school citizenship award to Theodore Overlock, who served as officer during each of his four years course, and who was president of the Student Council for the past two years, as honor seldom accorded a student. Theodore Overlock is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Overlock.

Miss Sylvia Hall, salutatorian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hill, was awarded a permanent, given by Miss Florence Packard, as second highest ranking student.

Awards made among the lower classmen were: A medal to the highest ranking student in freshman mathematics, given by Mrs. Grace Wyllie, of the teaching staff, to Janet Philbrook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Philbrook; Principal's medal for highest ranking freshman in general science, a tie between Morgan Barbour, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Barbour, and Charles Dolham, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dolham; a medal to the highest ranking student in science in the school, given by a manufacturer of scientific material, made to Eini Riutta of class of 1949, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antto Riutta; the Principal's medal to the highest ranking student in American History, to Helen Carroll, member of the junior class, with 94 percent average, who also received the medal given by Miss Sylvia Gray, of the teaching staff, for the highest ranking student in English, her average for three years being 95 percent. Miss Carroll is the daughter of Mrs. George Dow of Pleasantville.

In the presentation of diplomas, Earle M. Spear of Waldoboro, Superintendent of Schools, admonished the 12 graduates to receive the lesson from American pioneers, builders of the nation, that this nation was not made by people with a contempt for hard work.

Teachers were alumni of 1947, the Misses Nathalie Wall, Monica Penney, Pauline Anderson, Ruth Pease, Joyce Butler, and Jill Cogan.

The graduation ball was held at Glover Hall. Church decorations featured the early summer flowers, the motto of the class, "Not failure, but low aim, is crime," the class colors red and silver.

Graduates wore navy caps and gowns. Marshal for the class and the student body was Helen Carroll, member of class 1949, her baton in the class colors, and corsages worn by girls of each class were red and white carnations by the graduates, lilies of the valley and narcissus by the juniors, red roses by the sophomores, and mixed sweet peas by the freshmen.

Glover Hall had been tastefully and colorfully decorated for graduation ball with the class colors, balloons, and evergreen, the stage, occupied by the orchestra, made to simulate a garden with a white fence.

New Sweeper's Here

And the Contraption Does Slick Job In Short Space Of Time

The new Elgin street sweeper has arrived and was put into service over the week-end as a regular piece of equipment of the Department of Public Works. The unit is capable of handling all of the paved streets in the city in less time than the former two-man sweeping crew and truck was able to care for the business district.

The sweeper, which drives its three brushes from the motor of the vehicle, and takes the refuse into an enclosed tank creates no dust in sweeping as everything swept up is drawn into the tank, all brushes rotating toward a central suction unit.

One man can operate the sweeper, against the truck and driver, plus two sweepers employed in the old method, considerably lowering the cost of sweeping and at the same time extending the service to all the city streets.

City Manager Farnsworth points out that the sweeper will save a total of $3000 per year over the old method of sweeping and will permit the writing off of its expense in three years.

The sweeper will aid in the tarring program in that it can clean a street from gutter to gutter to ready it for tarring. Streets, once only tarred in the center as the cost of preparing the gutters for tarring by hand would have been prohibitive, can now be done in a short time and at small cost. The result will be completely tarred street which can be easily swept, resulting in a much cleaner city at less cost per year.

All interested citizens are invited. Mrs. Perley Jones, director of an "Old-Fashioned Musicals" held an audition June 14 at 7.30 at the Grange hall.

What's the Nimblest Number on the highway?

THAT's a big question, taking in a lot of territory, and we'd be the last to deny you the right to your opinion.

But, sir — before you slip up behind this tidy SUPER with the idea of giving it the go-by, better figure what you're up against!

It's big, certainly — six-persons roomy and two-tons hefty as it takes to the road.

But take a look at the size of that bonnet — it isn't there just for show! It's filled to the brim with straight-eight power — and a very special kind of power at that.

For Buick's the only car on the road today that puts Fireball power under your treadle foot.

It's the only car in which pistons are specially shaped to roll each tiny fuel charge into a compact ball that lets loose with extra lift and surge.

And that means that this clean-lined fleetster is exactly what it looks like — a star performer.

A nudge on the gas treadle — and it's gone with the wind.

A swing of the wheel, and this low-swung carriage takes curves with the ease and sureness of straightaways.

As for rough spots, even they won't slow you down, so smoothly does this beauty take all kinds of going in its stride.

You can see, of course, how steady it is. How the body rides level and unperturbed while four soft coil springs soak up the jars and jolts.

As for handling, well once you've tried it, we know exactly what you'll do.

A happy homemaker

Most young couples who establish their own homes in New England want telephone service. For the telephone is hardly considered a luxury any more. It's something that a housewife needs to do her job.

There have been more brides than ever in New England recently. More people are living here than ever before — and a larger proportion than ever want telephones.

That's one reason why we've been putting so much money into new construction and equipment — more than three times as much in 1947 as our yearly pre-war average.

We're still going ahead — at the highest rate ever. For only in this way can we meet New England's growing telephone needs.

To provide more telephone service we must provide more telephone equipment.

Practically all money spent for construction to meet the demand for improved telephone service comes, not from telephone bills, but from people who invest savings with us, knowing they will be used for improvement and expansion.

Our earnings must provide a high enough return so that investing in the telephone business will continue to be as safe and attractive as in other enterprises.
